

Victor A. Feigenbaum, Esquire

Victor gained substantial Alternative Dispute Resolution experience and expertise from 17 years service as Chief Clerk of the Housing Session in the Hartford Superior Court. While working for the Court, he oversaw the development of the existing in-Court mediation program noted for its efficiency and success, which has served as a model for the rest of the Court system in Connecticut.

As chief clerk, Victor acted as sole mediator in hundreds, if not thousands of cases with the largest portion of his mediation caseload involving commercial cases where an understanding of the complex commercial issues and nuance presented in the disputes was of critical importance to settlement. Accordingly, his experience, high success rate and exposure to more complex commercial issues, allows his services to be available not only in the landlord/tenant area, but in cases involving complex commercial and subrogation issues as well.

Since leaving the court for private practice in 2000, Victor has been referred a number of mediation and arbitration cases privately and by the courts. We at Litigation Alternatives, Inc. are honored that he has chosen to embrace our model of service where he can continue the "arms-length" practice of Alternative Dispute Resolution without active marketing and administrative responsibilities.

While a main goal of his transition to private practice is the continuation of his participation in the resolution of disputes as a neutral hearing officer through this office, Mr. Feigenbaum has also opened his own private practice in West Hartford, where he services a wide range of clientele and commercial issues.

Victor is a graduate of Trinity College and subsequently graduated cum laude from Western New England School of Law after a noteworthy and nationally recognized business career. He has contributed to the promulgation of rules for the Connecticut Practice Book, helped work on legislation affecting commercial and residential landlord/tenant law, has led or participated in a number of seminars in his area of expertise and is one of a few contributing authors to the Connecticut Lawyers' Deskbook. He is one of many leaders in Hartford's Jewish Community and is currently President of Congregation Beth Israel in West Hartford.
